West Palm Beach Advises Residents to Prepare for Potential Coastal Flooding

The City of West Palm Beach is issuing a proactive advisory to its residents, encouraging preparedness for the anticipated coastal flooding starting on Friday, Oct. 27 through Tuesday, Oct. 31. The combination of King Tides, The Harvest Full moon, and remnants from Hurricane Tammy could impact water levels. While we do not expect widespread flooding, there is potential for localized flooding, and we want residents to be aware, prepare and stay vigilant.
